Hansman: The biggest one is that I think of book publishing as less of an ivory tower. I used to think that you had to be an amazingly brilliant writer to publish a book, but now I see it as much more of a business, and I think publishers are trying to find books that will sell. (I don't mean that to sound totally jaded, I think there's some overlap there, but still.)
Shalmiyev: Not getting that Modern Love column the way my agent and everyone told me I should? Not realizing there is a legal side to this writing real people thing. Get ready to shit your pants if you want to tell THE TRUTH. Reinhold Publishing, 1962. First printing. Hardcover with dust jacket, wrapped.
