Fantastic book fitting in well with growth mindset and emotional regulation! Also great for recognising we are all individual with strengths and areas for development so can target set from it I used it as a new class activity for the first couple of weeks as you can get a real understanding of the kids and implement growth mindset from the off. I now use it as part of intervention for pupils with SEN, particularly pupils on the autism spectrum. Read more. Helpful. She is also the author of the award-winning book, Your Fantastic Elastic Brain. Sarah Ackerley, grew up in Waxahachie, Texas in a family of seven children. Her parents had a reputation for giving books as gifts for all holidays-Valentine's Day included-and so Sarah had no choice but to read them. She developed her style by looking at hundreds of picture books and constantly drawing character sketches. She currently owns more picture books than regular books and will probably keep it that way as her Amazon shopping cart somehow keeps filling up with children's books that need to be purchased. Sarah lives in Los Altos, California with her husband and two fickle cats. She divides her time between illustrating books and creating whimsical paintings and portraits for kids of all ages.
