Volume VIII, The Eastern Front 1943-1944 : the war in the East. The Second World War is a history of the period from the end of the First World War to July 1945, written by Winston Churchill. Churchill labelled the "moral of the work" as follows: "In War: Resolution, In Defeat: Defiance, In Victory: Magnanimity, In Peace: Goodwill". Churchill wrote the book, with a team of assistants, using both his own notes and privileged access to official documents while still working as a politician; the text was vetted by the Cabinet Secretary. Churchill was largely fair in volume i Fighting the War edited by John Ferris and Evan Mawdsley volume ii Politics and Ideology edited by Richard J. B. Bosworth and Joseph A. Maiolo volume iii Total War: Economy, Society and Culture edited by Michael Geyer and Adam Tooze THE CAMBRIDGE HISTORY OF THE SECOND WORLD WAR *. VOLUME I Fighting the War *. · The quality of historical work has risen. Poor or mediocre books about the Second World War abound, but so too serious studies · whether narrowly focused and thoroughly researched, conceptually sophisticated, or multi-archival, multilingual and multidisciplinary. Perhaps more than in any ·-eld of study, good works about this war combine. The fourth and final volume in the landmark Second World War Experience series goes spread by spread through the gripping sequence of events that finally brought the war to an end · from the dramatic Allied landings on D-Day in the west to the atomic bombs exploding on Hiroshima and Nagasaki in the east. The rare memorabilia tucked into the book includes personal letters from General MacArthur to his wife during the battle to recapture the Philippines, and Eisenhower's ·-œin case of failure · message, drafted before the Allied landings on Normandy's beaches. ...more.
