

A. Atwater Kent: The Man, the Manufacturer, and His Radios. Sonoran Pub., 2002. Ralph Williams, John P. Wolkonowicz. 9781886606173. 108 pages. 2002

A. Atwater Kent book. Read reviews from world's largest community for readers. Andy Weir takes his readers on interstellar journeys that explore science, survival, and the solar system. His characters have been stranded on Read more 45 likes · 8 comments. Trivia About A. Atwater Kent: No trivia or quizzes yet. Add some now ». Company. A. Atwater Kent : the man, the manufacturer, and his radios by Ralph Williams(Book). The letter from Alma Mahler concerns an invitation she had received from Atwater to a party he was giving at his home in honor of Eugene Ormandy's conducting of Gustav Mahler's eighth symphony at the Hollywood Bowl; in declining, Alma highlights the fact that Atwater had misspelled "Werfel" in the invitation. Together it covers the history of the Atwater Kent radio manufacturing company and provides a detailed description and analysis of their products of the first decade, the 1920s. It is accompanied by almost 200 photos and schematics of their radios, and pictures of the factory. A terrific book for radio collectors and historians. ©2003 Sonoran Publishing 112 pages. List $25.95. Order #0000Discontinued. Copyright 2003-2018 Universal Radio, Inc. Atwater Kent Manufacturing Company (Philadelphia, Pa.), Biography, Electric engineers, History, Radios, Receivers and reception, Vacuum-tube circuits, Electrical engineers, Radio. People. Atwater Kent (1873-1949). Places. United States. Edit. A. Atwater Kent. the man, the manufacturer, and his radios. This edition was published in 2002 by Sonoran Pub. in Chandler, Ariz. Edition Notes. Atwater Kent 206-X. Once upon a time, I think it was in 2002, my friend and colleague Alain Maury told me that in the storage room of the house he was renting he had found an old radio. He knew that I restored and collected radios, so he asked me if I would be interested in yet another one. He also asked the house owner if the radio had any future prospects, and got permission to dispose of it. When I went to pick it up, the surprise was on my side: I had expected "any" old radio, but finding an Atwater Kent cathedral from 1934 was certainly beyond my expectations! This is the first Atwater Ke...