This book examines the relationship between demographic growth and economic development in eight Arab countries. Despite a slowdown in demographic growth, as a result of the change in the age structure of the population, the labour force is increasing rapidly. In other parts of the world, similar developments have enhanced economic growth. From privilege to competition: unlocking private-led growth in the Middle East and North Africa. World Bank. New entrepreneurs and high performance enterprises in the Middle East and North Africa. Jobs or privileges: unleashing the employment potential of the Middle East and North Africa. World Bank. The unfinished revolution: bringing opportunity, good jobs and greater wealth to all Tunisians. The future prosperity of most people of the Middle-East and North Africa and the social cohesion of their countries rests in great part on the ability of governments to enable the private sector to respond to this job creation challenge. This is what... Essential (23) Functionality (11) Performance (19) Advertising (154) Unclassified (9). Essential cookies help make our sites usable by enabling basic functions like page navigation, login and access to secure areas of the website. Issuu cannot function without these cookies. Name. From Privilege to Competition: Unlocking Private-Led Growth in the Middle East and North Africa. Cited at RePEc: 36 + Citations at Google Scholar by the title. author-name. Part one assesses the performance of private sector development in the region from a macroeconomic and microeconomic standpoint (chapter two). Environment - Environmental Economics & Policies Finance and Financial Sector Development - Debt Markets Macroeconomics and Economic Growth - Political Economy Private Sector Development - E-Business Private Sector Development - Emerging Markets. provider-name. Washington, DC. From Privilege to Competition: Unlocking Economy Private Sector Development in the Middle East and North Africa. The future prosperity of most people of the Middle-East and North Africa and the social cohesion of their countries rests in great part on the ability of governments to enable the private sector to respond to this job creation challenge. This is what this report is about. It is about enabling the ne